

SAIC Named to Advanced Battle Management System Digital Infrastructure Consortium

September 19, 2022

Company to develop digital and data-centric capabilities for the Department of the Air Force

RESTON, Va.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Science Applications International Corp. (NYSE: SAIC) has been named to the Advanced Battle Management System (ABMS) Digital Infrastructure Consortium developing digital capabilities that enable multi-domain operations for the Air Force, Space Force, and Joint Force.

"SAIC is one of five companies selected to serve a vital role in realizing the joint all domain Command and Control (C2) vision for the Department of Defense," stated Michael LaRouche, president, National Security and Space Sector at SAIC. "We are prepared and ready to support our nation's warfighters and provide them with a secure architecture that accelerates decision making and amplifies mission success."

ABMS will accelerate the fielding of new battle management capabilities, utilizing the best industry has to offer to enable our joint and coalition forces to counter the evolving threat.

As part of the Digital Infrastructure Consortium, SAIC will collaborate with other members to integrate modern capabilities leveraging digital engineering. These modern capabilities will become the foundation for the Department of the Air Force's contribution to the JADC2 concept.
